Traffic snarls warrant parkways, says planner

PLEASANTON — The city should begin work on the proposed Del Valle Parkway in two or three years, not the 10 or 20 years previously stated by city officials, Planning Commissioner Dave Shepherd told The Times yesterday.

Shepperd realizes the city is short on capital improvements funds, but the parkway deserves a higher priority than it has been getting, said Shepherd. He said his fellow planning commissioners agree with him on that point and hope to bring it up when they meet with the city council at a meeting tentatively scheduled for later this month.

Shepherd and the other commissioners were prompted to push for the early construction of the parkway after realizing Wednesday night that it's already too late to do anything about the traffic contgestion problems on Vineyard Avenue.

The street gets 10,000 car trips a day, by far the greatest of any collector street in the city. The reason is that Vintage Hills has developed greatly in the past few years, but the road system intended to serve Vintage Hills, — both Pico Avenue to the south and west and Del Valle Parkway on the north side of the Arroyo Del Valle — have not been developed.

The commission faced a possible rezoning Wednesday night on a few acres on Vineyard Avenue which have been scheduled for apartments for years. But after objections from local attorney John Corley and nearby property owner Joseph Madden, commissioners concluded that downzoning vacant lots along Vineyard would be a bandaid solution for a cancer.

The patient needs an operation, the commission decided and construction of the parkway across the arroyo from Vineyard Avenue is the only way to do it, they agreed. The first link in the parkway probably would run from First Street to some point near Vintage Hills or the mobile home parks.

The ultimate route of the parkway also will include a stretch from First Street to Main Street - Santa Rita Road and another stretch beyond that from Main Street - Santa Rita Road to Hopyard Road. Shepherd's remarks had some interesting implications for those two stretches, too.

In the stretch from First Street to Main Street - Santa Rita Road, the city would acquire all four homes on Vervais Avenue. Residents there have been waiting for years for the city to take their property and meanwhile must contend with the increasing commercialization of their neighborhood and the noise and congestion that involves, said Shepherd. If the city could complete that stetch soon, it would alleviate homeowners' problems there, he said.

On the third stretch, Main Street - Santa Rita Road to Hopyard Road, the city faces an important decision concerning the parkway's alignment, said Shepherd. Right now a few blocks of the road have been installed and just east of Hopyard Road if the alignment continues as planned, it would curve gently toward Main Street - Santa Rita Road.

That curve may look nice on the planning maps, but it will create some problems, said Shepherd Morrison Homes plans single family homes on 22 acres on what would be the south side of the parkway. Since there also will be homes on the north side of that alignment, it would mean the street would split the neighorhood, said Shepherd.

Splitting the neighborhood would mean that children would have to cross a wide, busy street to get to school. And motorists driving the "scenic" parkway would get a view of nothing but homes at that point.

Swedish visitors arriving after all

Ten Swedish high school-age students were to arrive at San Francisco International Airport this morning, bound for host families in Livermore, Pleasanton and San Ramon.

Their arrival, scheduled for 1:54 a.m. this morning, culminates weeks of effort on the part of Judy Luepke, valley representative of Students International of Europe, and the host families.

The contingent coming to the valley is part of 54 that left Copenhagen yesterday for destinations throughout the state. They were to go through immigrations and customs in New York and then take an American Airlines flight to San Francisco.

Arrival of the students for a full year's stay in the valley was up in the air until late last week.

The students' passage to the United States had been blocked by a state Attorney General's office opinion that said local school districts could not contract with a foreign - based agency to have students take up classroom space when insufficient space and materials might be available for native students.

Legislation authored by Assemblyman Leroy Greene, and signed by Gov. Edmund Brown, Jr. on the last day of the legislative session, overrode the opinion and cleared the way with U.S. Immigration. Mrs. Luepke and local families then helped clear the way so the Swedish students could get their visas.

Mrs. Luepke, who made dozens of phone calls to the capital, Assemblymn Greene's office, the Swedish Embassy in San Francisco and Students International of Europe American headquarters in Boston, said that any valley families or students wanting more information on the student exchange program can reach her at 443-4936.

The weary group of students coming to the valley will be attending Granada, Livermore, Foothill and California High Schools.

The six who'll attend Granada will meet with counselor Pat Donaldson this afternoon to map out their class schedules. Schools in Livermore open Monday. Foothill opened today and California High last Tuesday.

Swedish students and their hosts families are;

Bo Nilso, hosted by Ann and Dick McPhee; Lili Tolin and Gunilla Seebjemark, hosted by Rick and Ann Garber; Jeanette Mortensen, Ben and Judy Odegard; Katrin Jansson, John and Diane McMichael; Anna Sanell, hosted by Marian Salaz; Jonas Ahlbon, Geri and Gordon Evans; Per Halberg, Dave and Petey Pearson; Eric Jelmhag, Rudy and Judy Luepke; Agnetta Willard, Jake and Janice Mozley of San Ramon.

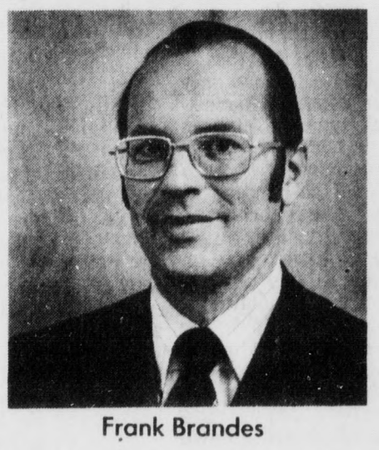
Brandes— no racial problems

PLEASANTON — Councilman Frank Brandes issued a press release yesterday which he hopes is the last word in the flap between him and Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire over what LeClaire had termed his "racist" remarks at a recent Housing Authority meeting.

LeClaire took Brandes to task for allegedly saying at a Housing Authority meeting that "everyone supports public housing as long as it isn't in their neighborhood, that public housing in Pleasanton would become a political football, and that public housing is historically associated with increased crime and vandalism." These purported remarks "do not contribute to a positive effort toward the expedient implementation of public housing in Pleasanton," LeClaire said in a press release last Friday. She went to the press with her remarks because Brandes had been quoted on page one of the Tri - Valley Herald, she said.

Brandes said in his release yesterday that "with the many pressing problems in the city, it is unfortunate that Joyce LeClaire has chosen to make ridiculous, unfounded personal attacks against me rather than to speak to the issues. I find it incredible that she also questions the right of any city council members to make public statements on the issues.



Frank Brandes

"I believe the public has the right to know and demand in no uncertain terms how their elected officials stand on the issues. My comments at the last Public Housing Authority meeting were not in any manner derogatory, but I beleive (these) represent the feelings and concerns of the majority of the citizens of Pleasanton. Since I have been on the council, LeClaire has not attended any Housing Authority meetings or conferred with the board staff or board members. If she had, she would know there has been no mention of any racial problems by me or any of the Housing Authority board or staff and staff.

"LeClaire would also have found that I have taken and will continue to take an active, positive interest in Housing Authority matters and that I have a good relationship with the Housing Authority staff and board," said Brandes.

Maggots finding a bonanza

LIVERMORE — Linda Little just had to ask.

"Listen," she said to her neighbor. "Do you have maggots in your garbage?"

"What, me? Maggots?"

"Better go look."

"Come on, I don't even know what maggots LOOK like."

"Neither did I, until this morning. Go look."

And so the obnoxious news spread around Livermore's most fastidious neighborhoods. Twice - a - week garbage colection had been stopped, and there were maggots all over town.

Thousands of the threadlike, ghostly white creatures are gorging themselves on those old melon rinds and chicken fat, in preparation for the day they go into three - day retirement as pupas and emerge as buzzing black houseflies.

Linda Little didn't wait around to investigate the biological wonders in her swarming garbage cans. Instead, she and her friend, Becky Dolstra, who lives a few blocks away in Livermore's Granada section, got out the pickup truck.

Pulling on work gloves, they loaded their four cans into the truck and drove them out to the Vasco Road dump, where they paid two dollars for the privilege of depositing cans, garbage and maggots together into the city's castoff heap.

Then it was down to the store to buy four new garbage cans.

"I've lived in Livermore eight and a half years," reports Linda, "and Becky's lived here 12, and neither of us have ever seen a maggot before."

They are sure it's because the city council recently allowed Livermore Disposal Service, a branch of Oakland Scavenger Co., to stop collecting twice weekly in the hot summer months.

"I thought they collected twice a week for health reasons," Linda said.

Becky added she felt the decision to raise rates and cut collections had been "rushed through" the city

Bailey birds on six month probation

PLEASANTON — Alfred Hitchcock was nowhere in sight, but the birds triumphed again, this time at the planning commission meeting.

Roger Bailey and his 12 - year - old son won permission from the planning commission to keep a dozen pigeons and one pheasant in cages in their backyard at 3386 Harpers Ferry Ct.

Neighbors had complained about noise and pigeon droppings a few weeks ago, but the commission was satisfied Wednesday night that the Baileys, who have been learning more about birds, will keep the operation on a tight rein.

The Baileys agreed to a staff recommendation to reduce the number of pigeons from 25 to 12 and to sell the Bob White Quail whose high pitched call annoyed many neighbors. The commission gave the permit a six - month life and will review the aviary then.

If any of the conditions of the permit is violated prior to the six month review deadline, the permit can be revoked immediately, noted Planning Director Robert Harris.

Commissioner Bill Jamieson commended the Bailey youth for his interest in animals and expressed hope he continues with his hobby. "I agree," said Chairman Bob Butler. "He's learning a lot about an interesting subject."

Enough cash to rebuild Fallon House

DUBLIN — They've found a way to rebuild Fallon House after all.

Devastated in an accidental fire, the 124 - year - old cabin on Foothill Road, Pleasanton, had been given up for lost after the state refused to fund its reconstruction.

Now, the word is that enough money will be available at least to rebuild, full scale, the shell of Jeremiah Fallon's old Foothill Road homestead. It's hoped various Valley service groups will donate enough money and labor to decorate the interior as it looked in the 1850's, when it was new.

Jim Gahl, the Frederiksen School teacher who heads Dublin Historical Preservation Association's committee to rebuild Fallon House, announced yesterday there appears to be enough money to make a reconstruction. The group plans to use hardware, lumber and pieces of the building that were not destroyed when local firemen mistakenly burned it down in a training exercise last May.

"Things are moving along fast," an elated Gahl reported yesterday. "The DHPA has approved spending $150 on permit fees — although we're hoping the county will waive the fees because it's an historical project.

"We have a $3,000 donation toward the project from developers Stoneson and Taubman Companies. And, since some state money originally intended for Fallon House will be going to restore old Murray School, that should free some DHPA funds for the Fallon House project."

The ambitious historical preservation group, headed by Judy Earl of Dublin, envision a state historical center off Donlon Way in Dublin. Old Murray School has already been moved there. Fallon House will be located at the site and the group are also hoping to add other old buildings, perhaps a general store and a blacksmith's shop.

Pleasanton Shoe Repair burglarized of $110

PLEASANTON — Burglars entered the Pleasanton Shoe Repair at 560 Main early yesterday and took approximately $110 in change and currency, police reported.

Police could find no signs of forced entry, and suspect that burglars squeezed through the store's shoe drop. The thieves then exited through the front door, police said.

Owner Jess John Gomes said that approximately $62 in change and $48 in currency was taken.

There are no suspects.

Valuables taken from locked pickup truck

LIVERMORE — Burglars forced open the right wing window to Henry Francis Powell's pickup while it was parked in front of his Oregon Way home early Tuesday and took more than $330 in valuables.

Missing items include a Hy Gain citizens band radio and Automatic Radio brand 8-track tape player, both marked with Powell's driver's license number, R0185676. Some tools and a pack of chewing were also taken.

Total value of the loss was put at $337.15. There are no clues in the case.

Radio taken from unlocked pickup truck

LIVERMORE — A $300 12-channel receiver was taken from William Franklin Cummins' pickup while it was parked on Portola Avenue between 8-10 p.m. Tuesday, police reported.

Police said burglars apparently entered through the unlocked right wing window. The receiver is described as a Swann brand 2-meter unit, black, with "W. Cummins" etched on the front.

There are no suspects in the case.

Saddlebags taken from cycle parked at Denny's

PLEASANTON — Saddlebags were lifted from a motorcycle parked directly in front of Denny's Restaurant on Johnson Industrial Drive Monday while its owner ate dinner inside, police reported.

Gary Lee Sorenson of Atwater told police he parked his cycle near the front entrance to the restaurant and went inside to eat. When he returned, saddlebags containing $272 in valuables were missing.

Missing items include a .32-caliber military brand blue steel automatic pistol, knife and miscellaneous clothing. Sorenson showed police a permit to carry a concealed weapon.

There are no suspects.

Kamp's Furniture Store vandalized

LIVERMORE — Vandals caused an undetermined amount of damage to Kamp's Furniture Store at 2695 First St. by breaking a window, pulling on a nearby tree and turning on water outlets early Wednesday, police reported.

Owner Harold Kamp told police that a concrete rock was thrown through a large window, damaging a maple rocking chair inside the store. Vandals pulled at a tree in front of the building and broke a sprinkler head, letting water run unchecked for hours, police reported.

No damage estimates were given. There are no suspects in the vandalism at this time.

Valuables taken from California Way residence

LIVERMORE — Police could find no signs of forced entry to Audrey Lee Hodges' California Way home after burglars committed a $600 burglary there recently, it was reported.

Police found an open kitchen window, and said it was the probable point of exit for burglars who took a Bulova 17-jewel silver watch with two diamonds, a size 6½ cocktail ring with diamonds, Wards brand am/fm 8-track stereo unit, and two speakers.

Police have no clues in the $600 theft. — by Bill Cauble

Job success formula

Students need early guides

"Parents have got to accept responsibility for what courses their child is taking in school ... because they'll be the ones stuck with a problem if the youngster doesn't benefit or isn't suited to the class."

Sharon Lee, a counselor at Diablo Personnel in Dublin, is concerned with the number of high school graduates who daily come trooping into the agency's offices with few marketable skills.

Most are young women 17 to 20 years of age looking for "an office job."

Yet a frightening number, according to Mrs. Lee, have minimal typing, 10-key and stenographic skills, are weak in math and atrocious in spelling.

The problem may have its root in communications — between the parent, school and counselor.

She believes that valley high schools and counselors are doing excellent jobs in working with senior high students to prepare them for the job market.

"The parent and the counselor have to work together, with the parent being aware of what his or her child is taking at all times," said the petite counselor with 12 years in the personnel field.

"If your skills are up, an employer can train you. But these kids come here, some barely able to type 20 or 30 words a minute and poor in math and spelling, with the attitude the world owes them a living!"

"I want to raise the parents' consciousness; their children should be prepared in school. By the time they come here, it's too late," Mrs. Lee contends.

A frequent speaker at valley school business classes, career centers, adult education and Regional Occupational Program sales and merchandising classes, she asserts that school cooperation, including that between the administration and counselors is "great."

However, a peek at some job applications gives a clue to the scope of the problem;

Jeanne, a 20 - year - old graduate of a local high school, attended college for one year but quit to seek a full-time job. She has minimal typing skills by personnel standards, has had work experience as a waitress and cashier at a valley restaurant, and wants a full-time office job.

Sharon Lee counsels young job applicant

Mrs. Lee's conclusion, from looking at the application and interviewing the girl, "she can either go back to school or back to an earlier job with a fast foods restaurant."

Joan is 18 and also a valley high school graduate. She once worked for a school answering phones and has additional experience as a receptionist with a community organization. She types 20 WPM, is not even fast enough to test on the 10-key, but seeks a general office job. She has been looking for more than six months.

Says Mrs. Lee, "I would hesitate to refer her to any of my employer clients."

Larry is 18 and a recent high school graduate. He lists a class in technical drawing as part of his school preparation and work experience of one month at a gas station and two months working on a carpentry job for a family member.

He initially applied for work through an agency nine months ago ... and wants to be a stock boy or gas station attendant.

Sandra, 19, graduated in June and job-hunted through most of the summer without success. She came to the personnel agency but was unable to pass a test on the 10-key and scored extremely low in math and spelling. Her job experience amounts to a half-year as an employee of a well-known Dublin area restaurant and one month filing for a realty firm.

She seeks a full-time job as an office receptionist.

Several other applications, all viewed with the proviso that identities be disguised, produced similar cases of less - than - acceptable basic job skills (typing, handwriting, math, spelling, and familiarity with basic office machines). — by Al Fischer

Car washes considered

PLEASANTON — It would be poor planning to allow automatic car washes in the central commercial zoning districts of the city, the planning commission decided by a unanimous vote Wednesday night.

The commission's decision came in response to a city council request for its opinion on the matter. The council is considering making such a change in the zoning ordinance.

Currently car washes are permitted only in the highly specialized service commercial zoning districts which often are oriented to automobile uses.

Commission Chairman Bob Butler noted that the proposed change would permit a car wash anywhere in the central commercial district, something which would conflict with the rood aesthetic image the city has been trying to achieve on Main Street.

Frank Louthan, owner of the Exxon Station at Main Street and West Angela, said he would like to install a car wash on the Angela Street vacant lot next to his station and the zoning change would help him. He said that his lot would be the only vacant lot downtown which could take an automatic car wash. The other two vacant lots could not take gas stations, which are a financial requirement to make a go of a car wash, said Louthan.

But the commmission remained unconvinced, since the zoning ordinance applies to all lots, vacant or developed.

Commissioner Dave Shepherd noted that car washes are as unattractive as large ice machines in the downtown, a reference to Pleasanton Liquors' request for a large ice machine on Main Street which was voted down by the planning commission, but later approved by the city council.

Noting that the city council was referring the question of the car wash zoning change to the planning commission, Commissioner Walt Wood said, "The city council has been fighting for good atmosphere on Main Street for 15 years. Why do they bother to send this to us at all?"

Realtor Mark Gerton, who has been working with Louthan to build the automatic car wash, said after the meeting that Louthan will have another shot at it at the city council level.

Chinese power struggle seen after Mao's death

TOKYO (AP) — Chairman Mao Tse-tung died Thursday, plunging China into an uncertain political future and leaving a gaping hole in the leadership of the world's most populous nation.

As if anticipating a power struggle for Mao's mantle, the Central Committee of the Communist party issued an appeal for unity.

In a statement, the committee pledged to "carry on the cause left behind by Chairman Mao."

The No. 2 man in the party has been Hua Kuo-feng, 57, regarded as a compromise candidate between the quarreling radicals led by Mao's widow, Chiang Ching, and the moderates led by followers of the late Premier Chou En-lai and his protege, ousted Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

But the succession to the chairmanship was uncertain and severe jockeying for power had already been going on for some time. The official Peking People's Daily recently hinted of "armed struggle" between the two factions, although no reports of bloodshed have surfaced.

The 82-year-old Mao died at 12:10 a.m. — 12:10 p.m. EDT Wednesday — the Hsinhua news agency said. He had been ill for some time and had acted more as a mediator in China's affairs than a day-by-day boss of the country.

Hsinhua said no foreign governments or groups would be invited to send representatives to a memorial rally set for Sept. 18.

The news agency did not give the cause of death or say where Mao died. American and other recent visitors to China reported he was frail and had trouble speaking. Medical experts who studied films of his recent appearances said he showed symptoms of Parkinson's disease.

President Ford, who conferred with Mao for almost two hours last December, said in Washington that his death was "tragic," and called him a "remarkable and very great man." The Soviet Union sent brief condolences, but had no praise for the man who regarded the Kremlin as his chief ideological enemy.

The Central Committee ordered a mourning period to last until the memorial rally in Peking on Sept. 18. The rally is to begin with all Chinese, "wherever they are," standing at attention in silent tribute for three minutes.

After the announcement, Japanese correspondents said crowds gathered before a large portrait of Mao in Peking's huge Tien An Men Square and near Mao's Peking residence.

The road to a major Peking hospital was closed to all but official cars, the Japanese correspondents added, indicating Mao's body might have been taken there.

Hsinhua said all recreational activities would be halted until after the rally, and Mao's body would lie in state in Peking's Great Hall of the People from Sept. 11-17.

The rally will be broadcast live on radio and television, Hsinhua said, and all factories and communities were told to arrange for the masses to listen or watch.

Mao was the last of the great Communist revolutionaries of his age. He outlasted Lenin and Stalin as well as nearly all of the Chinese leaders who followed him in the Communist revolution.

council without anyone consulting the citizens.

Houseflies lay up to 250 eggs at a time, with one fly being able to deposit up to 1,000 eggs in a lifetime.

The eggs hatch in eight to 30 hours into maggots. Since most flies have the sense to lay their eggs around food, the larvae have a veritable feast in a garbage can as they eat their way through their first few days on earth.

Maggots are not the only offensive thing about once - a - week garbage pickup, according to Becky. "I jog every morning at about 7 a.m., and I can smell the garbage," she reports.

"What a stench!"

Maggots have even infested the offal of one of their extremely fastidious friends in Sunset East, who seals her garbage into zip - lock plastic bags and then wraps those in clean brown bags before depositing them in her hosed - down cans.

"She has immaculate white carpeting, and white walls," say her friends — "and little white maggots."

Linda is convinced there would be more of a public outcry, except that people are embarrassed to admit they have maggots.

"It is totally disgusting," she says firmly, looking at the trim, well - kept homes along El Caminito.

"If this keeps up, it's going to be like India!"

Community pitching in

Complete with period furnishings, the buildings would provide a step back in time for anyone interested in history.

According to Gahl, rebuilding Fallon House is being made possible by the generous support of many local people. Contractor Ken Hart of Pleasanton has volunteered his expertise as a consultant. Myron Lewis of Hayward, an employe of the city Department of Public Works, drew up blueprints of the five - room house while it was still standing (it was occupied until 1974) and is refinishing them now.

Edna Dobbel of Pleasanton, whose late husband was the great - grandson of Jeremiah Fallon, visited the house often and is helping with the details.

The local Seabees group have promised to do the construction work, once all plans and permits are approved.

The original house had two bedrooms, a living room, a kitchen, a dining room and an unfinished upstairs loft, reached by a steep staircase.

Because of building codes, the upstairs will probably not be open to the public when the home is rebuilt.

Later, the family added a bathroom, a pantry, plumbing and electricity.

The total house was a small 30 by 24 feet, with eight - foot ceilings. It was originally built on a hillside above Foothill Road. When the well ran dry, Fallon jacked up the house and rolled it downhill on logs to its present location.

A number of the original furnishings are still owned by local families; DHPA members are hoping to acquire some of them to furnish the rebuilt cabin.

The target date for getting building underway is the first of the year.

After many false starts and disappointments, says Gahl, "It's really gotten off the ground now!"

John B. Edmands, Editor and Publisher

Tax relief is this the year

Whether it's "the Murphy ploy" or "the Watson initiative," or maybe just Governor Brown running scared, one way or another it looks like 1976 could be the year when home owners have their say about property taxes.

The complaint is not new. The Los Angeles County Assessor has attached his name to a series of "Watson Initiatives" each aimed at reshuffling the property tax burden. But those moves were always too late, or too complicated. This year, Mr. Watson claims, will be different.

Perhaps it is in that same mood Supervisor John Murphy acted to get Alameda County into the forefront of state action aimed at a special "tax relief" session of the legislature. Governor Brown is not eager about calling the legislature back into session for the best of reasons . . . but this is 1976, and the home owners are up in arms.

One feedback from Sacramento is that "the legislators simply aren't that close to the property owners' complaint" over taxes that, for some, lead to state confiscation of their property. Perhaps we could improve our representatives' vision with a few letters, telegrams, telephone calls.

In Alameda County, you can write Assemblyman Floyd Mori at 1811 Santa Rita Road, Suite 228, Pleasanton 94566; in San Ramon Valley, residents can write Assemblyman Dan Boatwright, 1035 Detroit Ave., Concord 94518. Senator John Nejedly can be reached at 1393 Civic Dr., Walnut Creek, 94596; Senator John Holmdahl has offices at 22300 Foothill Blvd., Hayward, 94541.

If you are interested in a tax bill that could approach $2000 this year, then a 13 cent stamp might seem like a very good investment.

No on dogs

California Farm Bureau is against it because the measure is "too complicated" and leads to "tax shelters for the operators.'

California Chamber of Commerce has determined that, far from producing new state revenues as promised, this dog - eared project could "lead to greater burdens on the taxpayer" by a shifting of General Revenue funds.

Those are just two more reasons why Prop. 13 — the dog racing boondoggle for California - should be defeated on the November 2 ballot.

Add to that list the League of California Cities, which shares concern for "increasd costs in local police and street services" without any compensating hike in local revenues from that surge of late - evening visitors. Since Alameda County Fairgrounds is mentioned by Prop. 13 proponents as one of the dog - racing sites, the impact on Valley communities — from traffic, from vandalism and from an unwanted nuisance — is clear.

Vote "No" on prop. 13. Let some other state go to the dogs.

Legislative farce

Lobbyists in Sacramento are going bananas in their attempts to keep track of pending legislation.

The hocus - pocus indulged in by the lawmakers as they scramble to gain passage of their pet theories in the final days of the session surpasses anything ever seen. The carefully thought out rules governing the legislative process are suspended, ignored and bypassed. Proposals which were killed in one house suddenly spring to life in reincarnated form as bills are hijacked right and left.

Take the case of SB 1750 by Senator Peter Behr. It was a grandiose plan to require home insulation estimated to increase building costs for new homes as much as $4000. Defeated in the Senate in June, Behr promptly amended it into SB 1748. The latter measure had passed the Senate as a bill relating to the healing arts. In its new form in the Assembly it contains the identical provisions of SB 1750. Thus, by hijacking one of his own bills, Behr is seeking to thwart the Senate's decision.

Or look at AB 499. As introduced by Assemblyman Gordon Duffy in 1975 it was a one page bill aimed at preventing "lobbying" behind the public view on matters pending before the Public Utilities Commission. After some minor amendments it passed the Assembly. But on May 20 of this year it was hijacked by Assemblyman Charles Warren and amended into a 22 page proposal. All that remains of the original bill is the number. The new provisions would have created a consumer action group to lobby the PUC, financed with takeouts on utility bills.

Far from being isolated cases the two examples are typical of the misguided gamesmanship being practiced by the legislators. Longtime observers, while conceding that an occasional bill hijacking is nothing new, say that they have never before seen anything as wildly rampant as the current situation.

Obviously it has gotten out of hand when so mild a mannered person as Senator Al Rodda, in the Legislature since 1958, is provoked into anger. Reacting to the flagrant hijacking of AB 499, Rodda exploded into action when the bill was presented to the Senate Public Utilities Commission. "This is nothing but a hijacked bill," he said. "It never was considered by the Assembly. If for no other reason that's enough for me to vote against it." The bill failed to get committee approval.

If that were the fate of all such bills which seek to escape the due process of legislation the practice would create no real problems. It would simply be one of careful monitoring to catch such ploys. But, for the most part, the hijacked bills go sailing through without question or, if raised, the challenges are ignored.

Worse, the continuous two year sessions have made it impossible to kill proposals. As in the case of SB 1750, even after defeat by one house, the measure gained new life.

"It's like a hydra headed monster," one lobbyist observed. "You kill a bill in one committee and the next thing you know it has popped up in six different bills in other places. There is just no way to keep track of what is happening."

The Constitution requires that bills will not be acted upon until 31 days after being introduced. The intent is to give the public adequate notice of proposed laws. Other provisions require bills to be considered by both houses. But the hijacking enables these requirements to be escaped. Bills which seem innocuous at introduction, and are forgotten, suddenly become major legislative proposals at the last minute.

If the professional lobbyists who are expert at following legislation and work full time at watchdogging the proposals can't know what is going on, what chance has the public of being alerted? The only judgement which can be made is that the lawmakers are making a farce of the entire legislative process.

FOCUS/Tax rates

Schools and $$

Are residents of valley school districts getting their money's worth?

Let's throw out a few figures and you be the judge.

The figures are the tax rates and assessed valuations of school districts throughout the county.

But before launching into figures we should take a look at what the districts are "offering" in the way of programs, facilities and personnel.

What with the increasing state nd federal "hand" on various programs, including those like the hot meal program about to be foisted on taxpayers, school boards and administrations have become increasingly wary of state and federal intentions.

Thus, we find districts exerting greater efforts to develop in-district programs — for remedial reading, outdoor education, accelerated learning activities and school-community projects.

In the realm of facilities, the average district is pretty-well constrained by state requirements, as best evidenced in the Murray district. Districts can also be hurt by union activities, as seen locally by the electricians strike that is delaying opening day at Greenbrook School by two weeks.

A tour of schools throughout the valley would show that many improvements are in order. And those districts that have received the green light (via the electorate or the state), such as Livermore, are proceeding.

So is San Ramon — out of student population explosion necessity in the southern end of the district.

Teaching staffs and classified personnel in each of the districts are certainly equal to those of corresponding districts — and probably a heck of a lot better if one could spend more time and do additional checking.

Overall, then, the taxpayer is getting a pretty good product . . . and here's what he's paying for it;

In the Pleasanton Joint School District, the tax rate for the fiscal year will be $3.239 per $100 assessed valuation. This includes $2.86 for district general and special funds, 29 cents for district bond interest and redemption and 8 cents for district state loan repayment.

Livermore Valley Joint Unified School District's tax rate is $5.847 per $100 asessed valuation, including $5.05 for district general and special funds, .349 cents for district bond interest and redemption and .442 cents for district state loan repayment.

Amador Valley Joint High School District, the only solely high school district in the county, will have a tax rate of $2.684 per $100 assessed valuation.

Sunol Glen's tax rate is $2.569. South County Community College District's tax rate is .688 cents — the lowest of the three in the county (Fremont-Newark's is 90 cents and Peralta's 88 cents).

Pleasanton Joint School District's assessed valuation totals $114.5 million, Amador's $234.7 million, Livermore's $189.9 million, Murray's $102.1 million and Sunol Glen's $18 million.

Alameda Unified's rate for fiscal 1976-77 is $5.529 per $100 assessed valuation, Hayward's $5.72, San Leandro's $3.08, San Lorenzo's $5.36, Berkeley's $6.47 and New Haven's (Union City) $5.67.

The most valid comparison would be to take Livermore's rate since that district is a unified one like most others in the county. And then judge if you wish.

Raymond on BART

Editor, The Times:

A recent article in the Valley Times was misleading with regard to my position on the future of BART in the Livermore - Amador Valley.

As a member of the Livermore - Amador BART Extension Citizens' Advisory Committee, which worked for a two year period with the consultant firm hired by BART, I had opportunity to study the issues extensively. As a long-time proponent of public transportation, I went into the study with a strong bias in favor of a BART rail extension to the Valley. By the end of the study I had become convinced that there are several major factors which argue against a rail extension. These are: (1)cost, (2) flexibility, (3) population density, (4) population projectins, and (5) commuter emphasis.

It is important to understand that public transportation means many different modes of transportation. Rail is the most expensive in terms of capital outlay. Both its expenses and its limited flexibility require high density and higher population for justification. The Livermore - Amador Valley currently has a low density and a relatively low population. Public attitudes seem to be desirous of continuing the low density. Furthermore, revised population projections show only moderate increases in popuiation over the next 20 years — from a current 106,000 to 150,000 at most. Therefore it is very hard to justify a nearly $400,000,000 cost for a BART rail extension, in 1974 dollars, for even 150,000 people when spread over the Valley at low density. The cost of the original BART system, costed out to the three counties which comprise its service area, is roughly $500 per capita. By comparison, Livermore-Pleasanton extension, costed out to the projected 150,000 valley residents which constitute its service area, would be over $2,500 per capita, again in 1974 dollars.

Another major factor is that the impact of the commuter - oriented BART rail extension runs counter to the expressed desire of valley residents to reduce commuting. BART rail extension also indirectly discourages the industrial and commercial development needed in the Valley to help balance the tax base and to provide local jobs. As the BART report states, "A decision to extend BART to Livermore and Pleasanton will reinforce a centralized Oakland and San Francisco) regional office employment pattern."

Finally, even under the most optimistic projections BART rail could not be a reality for at least 7 to 10 years even if firm plans were to begin now. I therefore believe that while the Valley should preserve a BART rail right-of-way in order to permit BART at some future date, should it become practical, the Valley should currently devote its efforts to promoting a really first class busy system that can be financially justified and that can provide much greater flexibility to the Valley's spread-out residents than a fixed rail system. 1990 comparisons for total annual cost of BART rail versus bus show the bus system costing 60% less.

There is no question that BART owes the Valley some service — a good and frequent system (buses every 15 minutes) using its own lane in th freeway median. This would provide the Valley's commuter with a reasonable alternative to the automobile without threatening the Valley's capability to attract new industry and jobs.

When I die

I was up late last night. I had a decision to make. It wasn't an easy decision, although I knew it was the right one.

I decided to give my pituitary gland to a little tyke who would need it when I no longer needed it.

The hard part of that decision was the realization that some day my body would die.

What a strange feeling — dead! Well, it happens and even though I knew it, I still shuddered. My thoughts remained positive, though.

After all, my soul would still be part of the Universal Reality.

But I would live on — part of my physical being would remain to help a youngster run and play active games. That child would not be hampered by a growth problem, just because part of the tiny body ceased functioning.

Being constantly sick and restricting activity to television and comic books isn't exactly my idea of a super fun time. Yet, that's what Sammy Spear had to do. His pituitary gland stopped working and until correctly diagnosed and treated with a rare human growth hormone, he was miserably ill.

I loved television when I was a kid in New York, but I also liked to scamper over rocks in empty lots and pretend they were mountains. Sammy couldn't do that — until he started receiving the hormone injections. The hormones came from the pituitary gland of a dead person. Without it Sammy would have never grown more than 30 inches, even as an adult.

That donor gave Sammy a precious gift.

The four - year - old grows leaps and bounds now, but when he reaches the five feet mark (unless donors increase tremendously) he will be withdrawn from the program, cold turkey! After all, another tiny tot wants to be a big kid, at least near normal, and there just isn't enough of the hormone to go around.

Thank God our scientists developed medicine to the point of preventing Sam's being a midget. But, now man's God-given reasoning must reign as people get over their fear of death and start allowing parts of their bodies to become the most needed hand-me-downs a kid ever received.

I don't fear physical death, yet I don't want it either. But, until death is scientifically conquered, it will happen. I want my death to be a time of joy for at least one other human being.

It is a legacy I wish many people would leave. It's the type of charity where you can't really say, "I gave at the office."

round the town

"How come you always write such nice letters to oldtime actors like Jimmy Cagney?" a reader asks. "Why don't you write to the new breed of actors sometime ... like Marlon Brando, or maybe even Tatum O'Neal?"

Well now, I thought about that. About writing to Marlon Brando, for instance. But then I realized I don't speak Mr. Brando's language. Even when he's NOT talking Sioux.

Heck, couldn't even understand Mr. Brando as "The Godfather." All that Kleenex wadded up in the great Brando cheek made him sound like a walrus two fathoms under. NOT THAT I understand walrus talk, either.

And as for Tatum O'Neal! Well, let's just say that I'm not allowed to use the Tatum tongue even at the ripe age of 29 - plus. Goodness knows how Miss Tatum gets away with it around the O'Neal household. I understand it's maybe because she owns the house. Her parents are just renting space.

Not being able to communicate with today's stars of stage and screen leaves me saddened, I must admit. Having enjoyed warm friendships over the years with the likes of Cagney, George Burns, Laurel and Hardy, it would be nice to extend that relationship with such as Barbra Streisand, or Robert Redford.

But Ms. Streisand comes across (to my ears at least) like one of those crank - up gramaphones, when you cranked it too tight. And Mr. Redford, I hate to admit always sounds to me like ... well, like Mr. Redford! I mean, no matter whether it's "Sting" or "President's Men" or whatever, Robert Redford talks and acts like Robert Redford. Since he's paid very handsomely for doing just that, I guess he and Mrs. Redford have no complaints.

"Now just a minute," I can hear one of you Redford fans saying. "How about George Burns? ... doesn't he get paid a bundle for just playing the part of George Burns? ... the same part for over 50 years!"

True, I suppose. But difference is that George Burns knows he's a one - dimension actor. The straight man. He played the part opposite Gracie Allen for 36 years. And when Gracie left this earth George just sort of slipped into retirement. "I nev er was much of an actor, without Gracie," he said.

Can you imagine Marlon Brando saying that about Mrs. Brando, II or III? Or from Tatum O'Neal ... "I learned to swear from my dear father." For which they are both paid handsomely.

Swearing is very much in, these days. Even a "PG" movie about little league baseball has more foul language than foul balls. "We tell it like it is," the actors say. And that's the trouble. In the era of George Burns and Shirley Temple, they told it like we WISH it was. Entertainment we called it. Have no idea what they call it today.

Not that George Burns was any angel. "I sang in saloons, on ferry boats. Sometimes people put pennies in our hats. Sometimes they threw us overboard." George was honest about his own failing, but left mine alone. That's the difference, between then and now.

George worked with Gracie on stage for three years before he determined that "she was a far better performer than I." So then he married her, to firm up their contract.

It was a contract both of them would honor for 40 years, to be severed only upon her death. George never re - married ... "never found anyone as nice as Gracie." And that's one more point on which the likes of George Burns differs from today's crop of super stars.

Mary Pickford was another one. A wee bit before my time a (unless you are terribly ancient) but Mary still holds a special spot in local history ... from those silent epics she recorded on the dirt streets of Pleasanton ... Rebecca of our bygone years.

Mary is still remembered, still loved, and still hounded every now and then by some latter - day promoter who wants to "Revive Mary Pickford" ... with a TV series, or some other blessed thing. But Mary stubbornly turns down the offers, and the added millions.

Mary explained it this way, a while back ... "That little girl of the silent film days gave me a life of comparative luxury ... I'm not going to turn on her now." And as for a modernized story of her own life ... "Let's put it this way ... people have their illusions. I want them to keep them."

It's hard to imagine Marlon Brando or Redford saying that, a few years down the line. I can't even imagine anybody wanting to preserve the Redford or Brando memory.

And that's another reason I don't try to understand them. They won't be around long enough to worry about.

A lost kitten

Editor, The Times:

I'm writing this on behalf of our 7 - year - old daughter, Kathryn. She has always been a very loving and caring child, especially with animals.

This past year, she asked us if she could have a Siamese kitten of her own. For weeks prior to her birthday we searched the want-ads for a male sealpoint Siamese kitten; but found none for sale. Then a week before her birthday, a close friend stopped by with a box and asked us to give it to her on her birthday. In it, was a 7 week old male sealpoint Siamese.

She cared for this kitten and wouldn't allow it out of our home till he was about 3 months old. Three weeks ago, he wandered off as the children were playing. We have put our ad in the newspapers with no response.

This past week we walked door to door over a 5 block area. He had been seen by some.

He's a very friendly kitten and may have been taken in by a family. And so we are writing this as our appeal to the family who may have kept him. He's all white with some dark markings and hs on a blue collar. He is a very special pet to Kathryn as well as to the family. Please call us (443-0839) or return him to us at: 1261 Laguna Street, Livermore.

We would be so grateful.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This won't be an unpleasant day for you, but it could be better if you are aware that individuals tend to be testy if you're heedless of personal idiosyncracies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be on your guard. Things you thought were firmly in your control may not be so secure. Outside influences play a role in today's events.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Pals play a big role in your life, but don't rise or fall with them today. They have complications they can't iron out and neither can you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're ambitious today, but you are not as sure of yourself as you should be. To accomplish great things, you must be more bold and persistent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be overly concerned today if everyone doesn't agree with your procedures. The important thing is that the people who count will.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Financial conditions are mixed for you today. You will win a little, lose a little and possibly finish with a slight deficit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The affinity you have for balancing one side against another may be overemphasized today. You could go back and forth all day with no conclusions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't despair if this day appears to be a trying one. You'll be equal to the test, even to the point of bringing order out of chaos.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have a lot of well-wishers in your corner today. Though their intentions are fine, don't let them lull you into a sense of false security.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It isn't fair to weigh the accomplishments of loved ones against others you admire. The assets and opportunities may be far from equal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be careful traveling today. You're just a shade too anxious to get to your destination. A few more minutes won't hurt a soul.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep your generosity within bounds today. Not everyone you want to share with would be willing to do likewise under similar circumstances.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

East's two-diamond overcall on a four-card suit is rather unusual, but he just hated to pass with his fine hand.

South rebid to two spades and played the hand there. East cashed three diamonds and then played ace and deuce of hearts.

The hand looked like a cinch for the rest of the tricks, but South got a rude shock when West showed out on the lead of the ace of spades. Now South had to try to find a way to collect eight tricks. He entered dummy with a club and led a spade. East's nine forced South's king.

Back to dummy with another club. Lo and behold East, who had dropped the jack on the first club, played the queen this time and South was in business.

He led the good 10 of clubs. East made his best play by ruffing with the 10 of trumps and South carefully underruffed. This left East on lead with the last diamond and the jack-six of spades. South held the queen of hearts and queen-eight of spades while North held a spade, heart and club.

If East led a trump, South would just take the last three tricks. If he led the last diamond, South would discard his high heart, ruff in dummy and claim.

Ask the Jacobys

A Pennsylvania reader wants to know if we overcall a spade opening with two hearts. Your hand is:

♠ 9 3 ♥ A K J 6 4 ♦ K 9 3 ♣ 8 6 4.

Both sides are vulnerable.

We recommend a pass since there is too much danger of running into real trouble. Still, if you like to live dangerously a two-heart overcall is not the worst bid ever made.

The Berkley's, including father Jack, were enroute home from an Hawaiian vacation last July aboard the SS Monterey when Tim and Theresa were chosen to fill in as extras while the tv crew filmed the Starsky and Hutch episode. It was an exciting experience, made doubly so for Theresa who got a fifteenth birthday kiss from Hutch! If Tim and Theresa end up on the cutting room floor and don't appear in the Oct. 2 program, you can still meet them at the Toy Box in the Valley Square Shopping Center at Hopyard and Valley Avenue. The Berkley's have recently acquired ownership of Pleasanton's only toy store and have plans for expanding the fine merchandise already in stock, was well as having a complete model railroad parts and accessories department. Mao's death halts Dunbar's trip

Diane Dunbar's trip to the Peoples' Republic of China with the rest of a United States' women's gymnastics squad was postponed yesterday as a result of the death of Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

The gymnasts were scheduled to leave San Francisco International Airport at 1 p.m. yesterday. Diane and the other athletes stayed at the Hilton Inn at the airport last night to await pending official word from Chinese officials.

This was the second time the athletes' trip to the Peoples' Republic of China was postponed. The first came earlier in the summer when a massive earthquake hit that country.

Rough Aloha for Larry

SAN JOSE — It won't have the significance of the battle between Romulus and Remus. Or, for that matter, Harpo and Groucho.

But, Saturday night at Spartan Stadium, nearly 20,000 fans will watch a pair of brothers from Dublin, Rayford and Larry Roberson, collide.

Rayford is the Spartans 6-3, 195-pound linebacker while Larry is a stocky 5-7, 170-pound running back for the University of Hawaii. It will be the first meeting of the brothers on a gridiron.

Though Rayford played on San Jose's varsity as a freshman last season, Larry red-shirted. Coming off a 45-10 crunching of Utah State a week ago, SJS is looking to avenge the 30-20 loss to the Rainbows that knocked them out of the national rankings.

"Yeah, we remember last year," Rayford said. "Man, we're going to kick their ass."

Larry doubts that. On the phone from Hawaii's park - like campus in the Manoa district of Honolulu, the 23 - year - old said, "I think we're a better team than last year, we have more depth and better morale."

But, he agreed, the Spartans will be out for blood. "They came over here last year and we ruined their bowl bid, sure, they'll be seeking revenge."

Rayford says he's looking forward to meeting his older brother and will hold nothing back when Larry comes barreling towards him.

Times SPORTS
Dave Weber, Editor

"When we were kids, he used to take care of me," Rayford recalled, promising, "Saturday night on the field, I'm going to take care of him."

Larry countered, "I think he's just a little too young to beat me.

"I'll be playing wingback, so Rayford will be right over me, that should be interesting. He'll try to stop me from getting outside, but I've got the experience.

"I think that's the key. He's bigger, but I'm just a little faster."

Asked how he managed to grow eight inches taller than his brother, Ray replied, "I ate all the food."

But, Rayford claims it's only natural that his brother is playing major college football, despite his small stature.

"Remember," he explained. "Larry's a Roberson; you know he's tough."

Larry also laid on a little family pride. "It's kind of personal. If I win, I can say — 20 years from now — Hey, remember when I beat you back then."

Manoa Larry

San Jose Ray

The Robersons won't be the only relatives meeting here Saturday night.

Nofo Tipoti, Hawaii's 6-4, 270-pound defensive end, is the cousin of the Spartans Wilson Faumuina. Fortunately, both play defense, or their clash might cause a ripple of typhoons throughout the Pacific.

Rainbow coach Larry Price doesn't view the game with the optimism displayed by the elder Roberson.

"On paper, we don't belong on the same field with the Spartans," Price moaned, adding, "We were proud to have (San Jose coach) Lynn Stiles at our football clinic last year while he was a UCLA assistant. Unfortunately, we exchanged playbooks.

"He has ours and all I've got is UCLA's."

Stiles agreed that his squad has the edge on the Rainbows. "Based on last season's loss, our players should be ready to play up to their highest standards."

The Spartans feelings were best summed up by Pleasanton's Rick Kane, who needs 430 yards to become San Jose's all-time leading ground gainer.

"They'll be no Polynesian paradise this year," he said. At least, not for one of the Robersons.

Prepgridders begin season

East Bay Athletic League football teams kick off the pre-league season this weekend with eight games; six today and two tomorrow.

Tonight Granada plays Marina at Pacific High in San Leandro, Dublin travels to Tak Fudenna Stadium in Fremont to play American, Livermore tangles with Castro Valley on the latters' field, Amador hosts Mission San Jose Foothill goes to Travis Air Force Base for a game with Vanden and San Ramon hosts Harry Ells.

All games start at 8 p.m.

Tomorrow California travels to Bencia for a 1 p.m. contest and Monte Vista takes on Sunset in Hayward at night.

Amador Valley is rated as one of the top teams in the EBAL this year but should still have its hands full with Mission San Jose, the Mission Valley Athletic League champion last year.

MSJ coach Jim Randall admits his team lost most of its first - string players but still has an abundance of talent left.

"We have Kelly Turner at quarterback, a 5-8, 165 pounder with speed," he said.

Tim Pebler, a big tight end and lineman Allen Haley are other returnees. The Warriors also have a fine group of junior varsity players from last year.

Amador will counter with ace running back Mike Goodison, quarterback John Sevo and a large offensive line averaging almost 200 pounds per man.

Granada must find a way to stop Marina quarterback Tom Friffin, who gained 1,140 yards and threw 11 touchdown passes last year. Marina is very quick over-all despite a lack of size.

The Matadors have powerful running back Vance Rushing to lead their attack. Quarterback Steve Robison returns from last year's team to engineer the team.

Rushing is the Mats' chief weapon, having rushed for 619 yards and a 5.9 average last season.

Livermore has a huge line led by tackle Wade Andrade (5-11, 250 pounds) and Gary Tennyson, (6-0, 210).

The Pokes lack experience in the backfield and that could be a problem. Castro Valley's chances for a winning season were hurt when quarterback Brad Wellma was injured in a baseball game.

Dublin and Foothill draw tough opponents. The Gaels will throw one of the East Bay's fastest (and best) backfields against an American team which should challengenfor the MVAL title. Running back Jim Boulware (1,190 yards last year) leads the Dublin attack.

Foothill has more depth than last season with 33 players on the squad. However, Vanden won the Sac-Joaquin Section small-schools title last year and has a large group of lettermen returning this year

Linemen Brad Sorem (6-2, 250 pounds) and Greg Ferrata (6-3, 235 pounds) lead a powerful defensive line for Vanden.

California, Monte Vista and San Ramon all face tough competition.

The Grizzlies probably have the easiet of three opponents in Benicia. Cal has more depth this year (30 players) and could start the season with a win.

The Grizzlies will have speed in 9.9 100 man Willie Huff and fullback-defensive end Steve West.

San Ramon is paced by quarterback Guy Houston. The Wolves are coached by new mentor Lyle Setencich.

Monte Vista finished the 1975 season on a winning note, beating arch-rival San Ramon and the Mustangs hope they can continue their winning ways against Sunset tomorrow night.

The Mustangs have 13 returning lettermen. Kurt Kanellis, a rugged linebacker and running back, is the Mustangs' top all-around threat. Monte Vista also picked up a promising transfer from American High in running back Nigel Johnson.

Nastase, Borg advance

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — Bjorn Borg survived a scare against defending champion Manual Orantes and Ilie Nastase rode a booming service to victory over Dick Stockton Thursday in bright sunshine to reach the semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Borg, the second-seeded 20-year-old Swedish sensation, eliminated Orantes, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4 in a gruelling, pressure filled 3-hour, 10-minute match. Nastase, the volatile Romanian, stopped Stockton, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Borg and Nastase will meet in Saturday's semifinals. The other semifinal pairs top-seeded Jimmy Connors and Argentina's Guillermo Vilas.

The women's semis will be played today with top-seeded Chris Evert going against Yugoslavia's Mima Jausovec and Evonne Goolagong meeting Dianne Fromholtz in an all-Australian match.

The women's finals are Saturday and the men's finals Sunday. The winners of each will receive $30,000.

Borg, winner of Wimbledon, the WCT final and the U.S. Pro Championship, played aggressive tennis throughout the first three sets. The lean Swede fired his lethal ground strokes at Orantes and followed them to the net. The match hinged to a large degree on how often Orantes could get his passing shots past the charging Borg.

The capacity crowd of 16,000 stood and cheered both players as the match ended. Borg, surrounded by photographers, was as emotionless as ever. Orantes slumped in a chair and buried his face in a towel.

It was a bitter disappointment for the courageous Orantes, who last year fought off five match points before subduing Vilas in a memorable semifinal, then stunned Connors in straight sets in the final.

Nastase, 30, used his booming serve and a strong net game to overcome the weary Stockton. The Romanian lost his service only once in the match and that was the first game of the first set. It cost him that set, Stockton holding his serve the rest of the way, but he didn't let it happen again.

Stockton, wearing a rubber corset to support an ailing back, was exhausted at the finish.

"He's serving harder than ever," said Stockton. "He hit a lot of aces. I was struggling to hold my serve just about every game the last three sets. It was a big advantage to him because I was worn out.

"It's hard to put pressure on his serve when I'm struggling to hold my own."

Nastase retreated to the clubhouse immediately after the match where he was reluctant to talk with newsmen.

Fingers 'saves' A's

OAKLAND — Rollie Fingers reached the 20 save plateau for the fourth time in his major league career yesterday afternoon as the Oakland A's got back on the heels of the Kansas City Royals with a 2-1 win over the Chicago White Sox before 6617 sweltering fans at the Coliseum.

The A's took the lead, and kept it, in the bottom of the second. Joe Rudi lined one of Ken Brett's 15 full-count pitches into the left field corner and jogged into second while Jorge Orta was still groping for the ball in the warning track cinders.

Gene Tenace followed with a run-scoring liner to left, but was cut down trying for second when third baseman Stein cut off Orta's throw to the plate.

In the third, Oakland came back for its other run.

Lead-off batter Billy North walked — on a full count, naturally — and went to second when Brett's third pick-off try was called a balk. A Campaneris ground out sent North to third from whence he scored when Don Baylor broke out of an 0-19 slump, drilling a single to left.

The White Sox got their only run in impressive fashion midway through the game. Orta pulled a Jim Todd offering 15 rows into the right field bleachers.

They threatened in the second and eighth on back-to-back singles; first by Bucky Dent and Jim Essian, later by Orta and Lamar Johnson.

Stolen bases by North, Tenace and pinch-runner Larry Lintz moved the A's to within 42 of the record 347 by the New York Giants in 1911, a mark they will break at their current pace.

Statewide enrollment dip

Enrollment in elementary grades throughout the state of California is expected to drop by 52,570 while the student population in grades seven through 12 is estimated to increase by 13,099 in 1976-77.

Speaking at a back - to - school press conference yesterday, state Superintendent for Public Instruction Wilson Riles said "we anticipate very slight year - to - year enrollment declines until 1980, when we are projecting an upturn."

A total enrollment of 4.24 million children is expected in grades kindergarten through 12. That's a decrease of 39,471 from last year, or 0.9 per cent.

Riles told the press conference there are two "overwhelmingly important issues in education that California is going to have to come to grips with during this school year."

One listed by Riles is that of school finance in light of the Serrano versus Priest case and the second the problem of student achivement.

"I anticipate that the State Supreme Court will issue the final ruling on Serrano before the end of the year. There seems to be little doubt that the court will reaffirm its earlier language which would require a restructuring of the way our schools are presently financed," Riles said.

"That means the Legislature is going to be faced with some tough political decisions in January."

"There are five methods most commonly mentioned for solving the Serrano dilemma," Riles said.

They include, according to Riles, full state assumption of the cost of public instruction, a statewide property tax with the state collecting the money for school support and sending out equal amounts per pupil, redistricting the state to eliminate the 1,046 school districts presently and create about 300 new districts of about equal assessed valuation, adoption of a system of "power equalizing," and setting up a combination of systems such as a statewide property tax combined with power equalization.

Riles said he felt progress had been made toward narrowing the gap between the have, and the have not school districts.

The second major issue, as Riles sees it, is student achivement.

Riles reviewed where California students stand on achivement tests.

In reading, California second and third graders are above the national average. In the sixth grade, a long decline in achivement has leveled off, and there is an encouraging trend. However, sixth graders are still below the national average. In the 12th grade, California students are below the national average and still declining in achivement.

"I should point out that the decline among high-school age youngsters is a national, even international, phenomenon," Riles asserted. "Children in schools around the world are not doing as well now as they did several decades ago by the traditional measurements."

Riles then noted that the state's reform of the primary grades, Early Childhood Education, will include 52 per cent of the primary grade (K-3) children this fall, which means more children "will do better."

"We've made other efforts to improve the primary grades and they also are paying off. The time has now come when we must implement a program to improve the achievement of students at the intermediate and secondary levels. A bill to accomplish this— RISE— is now on Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr's desk."

On another subject, Riles said "we are all concerned about school bus safety, and representatives from the Department of Education, the California Highway Patrol, bus manufacturers and school districts are making a joint effort to study the feasibility of signaling devices that would help prevent a repeat of the Chowchilla incident."

Riles also noted that this is the first year the new math and science texts in California will use the metric system as the standard unit of measurement.

School traffic poses danger as students return to class

Twenty - five thousand kids swarming the streets?

That's what it amounts to, when all the Valley's school children are on their way to school every morning between 8 and 9 a.m.

Put some of them on bikes; add a few thousand parents walking their kindergarteners; sprinkle liberally with jaywalkers and daredevils; and you have a giant safety hazard in the dawn's early light.

"Please be careful!" urges Livermore superintendent of schools Leo Croce, who foresees disaster if a less - than - alert commuter meets up with a child crossing in the middle of the block.

Croce suggests parents go over safety rules with their offspring — stay in the bike lanes, cross at marked crosswalks, look both ways and never run out from between parked cars.

Meanwhile, he urges drivers to be alert for the sudden re - appearance of pedestrians, and to observe the speed limits.

San Ramon, Dublin and Pleasanton schools are back in session now, while Livermore doors open Monday.

Planners have eye problems

PLEASANTON — Planners are supposed to be far - sighted, but a couple of planning commissioners broke that image Wednesday night.

Commissioner Walt Wood lost his eyeglasses during the meeting break. Wood usually is known as an optimist, but Wednesday night he needed an optometrist.

Commissioner Bill Jamieson didn't plan ahead well, either. He walked out of the meeting after someone announced that the headlights for a Mustang with a certain license number had been been left burning. When Jamieson returned to the meeting, he thanked someone for helping him save his car battery.

Inter-church council plans workshop for all and concert

LIVERMORE — The Valley Covenant Ministry Council held its first meeting of the year Sept. 8 to discuss the programs and budget for the '76-'77 working year and to finalize plans for the up-coming David Yantis Music Workshop and concert.

The new board members include the Rev. Jim Griffes of John Knox Presbyterian, chairperson, the Rev. Margaret Zeise of First Christian Church, Livermore, vice - chairperson, Mrs. Mary Comfort of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church, Livermore, secretary, and the Rev. Norman Callaway of Asbury Methodist, Livermore, treasurer.

The Valley Covenant Ministry Council was formed in 1968 by a group of valley churches to find a way to undertake projects that were of mutual interest.

The council serves as a forum for issues of concern to Christians and local citizenry. It consists of the pastor and an elected lay person from each participating church.

The need for a coordinating council was made apparent by the mutual activities in areas of racial discrimination. Prior to this there had been an Interfaith Group for Fair Housing and an Interfaith Religious Leaders Coordinating Council.

An accomplishment of VCMC has been the establishment of ACCORD, a coordinating council to overcome racial discrimination.

VCMC has organized joint services for Thanksgiving, Good Friday, and Easter, as well as the Annual Choir Festival, and has sponsored CROP projects — Christian Rural Overseas Program — to help feed the hungry.

They have held seminars on family living, workshops on marriage relationships and value clarification. Some churches cooperated on programs of national ecumenical evangelism, understanding of racism and aid to senior citizens through MATCH. Also, there is an on-growing project to aid Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch.

The next general meeting will be Sept. 23, at Holy Cross Lutheran in Livermore. The program topic will be "The Hunger Issue Again."

The David Yantis Music Workshop and Concert is the most immediate concern of the council. It will be held on Thursday, Sept. 16, and Friday, Sept. 17 at St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church, 1315 Lomitas Ave., Livermore.

David Yantis is a night-club musician turned Christian composer. He has performed in concert coast to coast and written almost 100 new Christian songs and hymns, and two full-length musical worship services used by Christians of all denominations.

The Livermore engagement will include workshops for children's choirs and their leaders, for singers and instrumentalists, a creative workshop for clergy and worship leaders, and a concert.

To pre-register for the Clergy workshop, call Mrs. Pat Mueller at 447-0716. The pre-teen songs and games, 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sept. 16 is free for children. The workshops and concert are $3 for adults and $1 for students, with children under 12 free. For further information call the Rev. Milton C. Johnson at 447-8840.

The last Sunday of each month frequently has a UFO (outing), an event in which the entire family may participate.

Jill Kidd will speak at the 10:30 a.m. service Sept. 12 "On Building a Caring Community." This will concern the need for caring relationships, for sharing experiences, for knowing people intimately, for accepting one another.

Jill Kidd recently worked as a staff counselor at the Livermore Presbyterian Church and for three years was a counselor for the State Office of Drug Abuse in Alaska. She will be sharing some of her experiences in helping groups build caring communities.

The fall RE Program will start concurrently with the above adult program. Nursery will be provided for pre - Sunday schoolers at the LUF House.

A welcome - back potluck dinner will follow the Sept. 12 services. A to L are requested to bring dessert and salad and M to Z are to bring a main dish (enough for 12). Ham and wine punch will be provided.

GRACE COPELAND

Unity Vespers

LIVERMORE — In response to many requests, Unity Vesper Services will begin on Oct. 3, at 7 p.m. at 1814 Catalina Court in Livermore. The services will be conducted by Grace Copeland, an ordained Unity Minister currently holding services in the Berkeley Unity Center.

Sunday evening services will consist of explanatory lessons based on the principles of the Metaphysical movement of Unity, music, group singing, and a healing meditation. Donations will be on a love - offering basis.

Unity offers an opportunity to invest in a heightened appreciation of symbols found in the Bible, as an indispensible means of unfolding the spiritual potentialities of all persons. Vesper services are open to all interested persons.

Half a million colonists kept their allegiance to the British crown during the American Revolution. New York City Loyalists even wrote a "Declaration of Dependence" in 1776! But for nearly 100,000 Loyalists, the price of allegiance was exile. Uprooted and banished, Loyalists were forbidden to return upon penalty of imprisonment or death. A proportionate exodus today would depopulate almost all of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Minnesota, The World Almanac reveals.

Colorful flowers like sun

By EVE GREENTHUMB

If you're to have fall and winter color in the garden and you don't have a sunny place for new plants, you either move other plants or else you add containers.

Besides pansies, calendulas, stock and other annuals, soon to bloom, can be added. Florist types are in full bloom.

The plants mentioned need at least 80 per cent sun each day. Florist types, if put outside, should be in the shade or partial shade because they have been previously protected. Others should be shaded at first and then put in the sun. If it's too hot, move them if in containers, or shade them if in the ground.

This is an ideal time of year for planting because the ground is warm and will remain so for a month or more. The warmth helps the roots to grow.

Colorful chrysanthemums are available now, some in 4-inch pots, in some nurseries. These may be planted in the garden along with winter annuals including pansies and calendulas. When the chrysanthemums are no longer blooming (after November) you will still have the others for color through the winter and early spring.

Chrysanthemums are one of the favorite plants in Contra Costa. In fact, Walnut Queen is the official flower of Walnut Creek. Perhaps you have already planted the cuttings earlier this year and are now staking and disbudding (if you wish large flowers).

If you still want to grow them in the garden, you can still purchase them as mentioned above.

This flower has been cultivated since early times and is mentioned in ancient literature of the Orient. The Chinese are credited with its development from weed to jewel. The Japanese added many new flower types. The French became enthusiastic for their use as garden flowers.

Then the English breeders became more interested and developed the large exhibition types. The purely garden forms, common in America, have been developed by Americans. In fact, the United States can claim more improvements in fewer years than any other nation.

Keep them well watered and provide good drainage and fertilizer. When you remove them from the pot for planting in the ground, disturb the root ball as little as possible, tamp the soil around the plant and water.

On Nov. 6 and 7 at Heather Farm Park, the Northern California Chrysanthemum Society will present its annual show including all varieties for this area. This is an excellent opportunity to see different types and colors. There will be handsome plants in full bloom for sale. Distinctive flower arrangements will be a feature of the show.

Pesticides sale halted by makers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two manufacturers have voluntarily ordered a halt to further sale or use of the pesticides Galecron and Fundal because tests indicate they may cause cancer in test animals, the Environmental Protection Agency said Tuesday.

EPA said these products, both containing a chemical called chlordemiform, are used only in agriculture, mainly against cotton pests.

It said chlordemiform, the suspected cancer agent, is not contained in any products sold for use around homes or gardens.

An EPA spokesman said the agency praised Ciba-Geigy of Greensboro, N.C., and Nor-Am Agricultural Products, Inc., of Chicago, for moving quickly to notify EPA and to take Galecron and Fundal off the market after their own scientists found evidence of a cancer hazard.

The spokesman said there was no evidence that chlordemiform actually causes cancer in human beings.

Murphy answers his critics

"Some of the statements published in the local press recently indicate the people who made them do not know much about the county government," Supervisor John D. Murphy told members of the Dublin Lions Club recently.

Murphy made the remark while explaining to the Lions how the Alameda County Board of Supervisors functions under the law.

"When I first took over as supervisor there were 90,000 people living in the First District. Since then it has grown to a maximum of 335,000 which has since been cut, through redistricting, to about 230,000," Murphy said.

"The job is a lot bigger now than it was 15 years ago and it requires all my time," he said.

The board meetings are only a part of a supervisors's work and a small part, Murphy explained.

"Each day a series of problems, hardly any of them publicized, must be solved," Murphy said. He cited welfare, roads, health and zoning problems as some of the chief factors which keep the work piled high on his desk.

The work, Murphy explained, not only requires long hours on the job, but a person who knows what he is doing and how the job should be done.

Murphy would not mention his opponent in the November runoff for the first district seat, nor would he refer to her indirectly "I have been told these service clubs do not want politics, either directly or indirectly, at their meetings," Murphy said after the session.

"If those are the rules, I'll abide by them. I've played by the rules all my life and I don't intend to stop now. What other people do is on their conscience," he concluded.

Murphy faces Valerie Raymond in the Nov. 2 runoff for the first district supervisor's seat.

So, what's new?

Sixteen Valley babies were born recently, according to reports from area hospitals.

At Eden Hospital, Castro Valley, Mr. and Mrs. James Flynn of 6539 Maple Drive, Dublin, welcomed a son Aug. 23.

At John Muir, Walnut Creek, arrivals included a girl Aug. 27 to William and Debra Diamond, 93 Serene Court, San Ramon; a girl Aug. 28 to William and Peggy Shaneen, 211 Joaquin Drive, San Ramon; a girl Aug. 30 to Douglas and Mary Todd of 5373 Theresa Way, Livermore; and another girl to Russell and Cheryl Morgan, 4542 Gatetree Circle, Pleasanton.

Valley Memorial Hospital, Livermore, records the following births:

Aug. 31, a boy to Thomas and Patricia Judd, 441 Kinglet Road, Livermore.

Sept. 2, a girl to Gregory and Catherine Jasonides, 7495 Donahue Drive, Dublin; a boy to Clyde and Linda Martin, 2081 Locust St., Livermore.

Sept. 3, a girl to Thomas and Laureen Rose, 5227 Lilac Ave., Livermore.

Sept 4, boys to Humberto and Madeline Serra, 4120 Cid Way, Pleasanton, and Raymond and Karen Wilson, 3471 Byron Court, Pleasanton.

Overcome hearing defects

Hearing loss requires the afflicted person, and his family, to learn new ways of talking together.

According to D. Wayne Smith, chief of speech pathology and audiology at Fairmont Hospital in San Leandro, "The hard - of - hearing person can still use his ears. He can listen selectively, choose the right hearing aid and use it effectively. He can help his hearing by using his eyes to read lips and observe other visible indications of what someone is saying.

"He can also keep his own speech clear even though he might not hear it."

Alameda County residents will have a chance to learn helpful habits at Fairmont Hospital's hearing rehabilitation program. Classes will meet Tuesday evenings, Sept. 14 through Dec. 10, 7 - 9 p.m. in Room 124, H Building, at Fairmont Hospital, 15400 Foothill Blvd., San Leandro (just off Interstate 580).

Senior citizens are admitted to the course free; the registration charge for others is $4, payable at the first session. The course is offered in cooperation with the San Lorenzo Adult School.

Instructor Joe Athey may be contacted at 577 - 1579 for further information.
